Libra Meta Goddess in Pisces at the Throat Chakra

Jan 28 to Feb 7

We are a peacemaking force in our world, seeing and speaking out for unity where there has been division, seeking inclusion where there has been separation, and healing the wounds of silence and oppression in the world around us.

We are finding peace within ourselves and speaking from inner congruence and truth.

We are finding our true power lies in compassion, empathy, and spiritual understanding, and when the words we speak emerge from that ground of peace, we restore our connection with ourselves, our beloveds and our Mother Gaia.

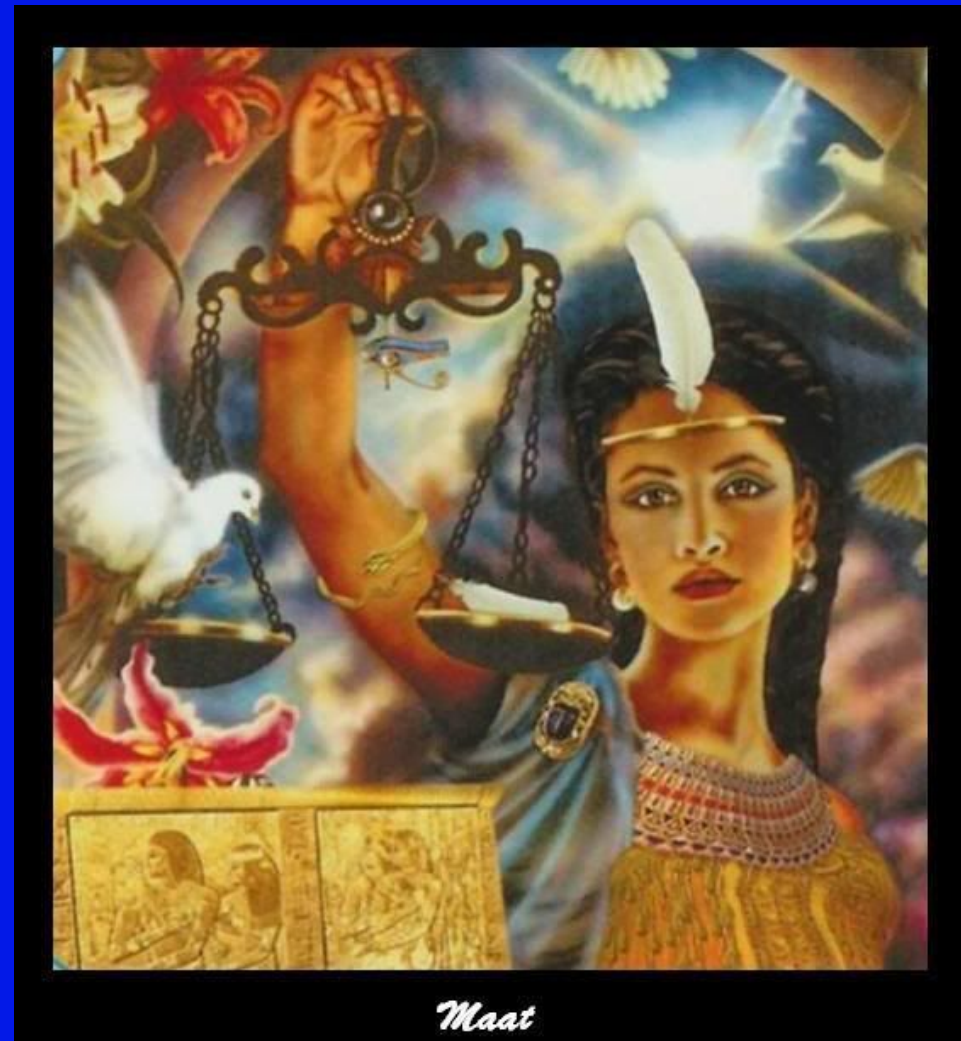

Libra Meta Goddess in Aries at the Throat Chakra February 7 to 27

We meet the Silencing Wound that has caused us to dim our light within and in our closest bonds. As we speak and shine, we heal, and express our soul gifts.

As we courageously express the core of who we are, we repel and transform the bonds diminishing us. We attract empowering relationships supporting us in living from our core and essential gifts!

We are courageously speaking out to guard and nurture our human and Earth Communities, defending the right of each being to exist and express their uniqueness as part of the whole.

We are Warriors of the Word - committing to what we honestly believe we are capable of - accomplishing all we can to fulfill our spoken commitments - strengthening trust in our relationships and in ourselves.

Juno (Roman) married to Jupiter
Hera (Greek) married to Zeus

Here I sing of Hera
She has a golden throne...
She is an immortal queen
Hers is the most eminent of figures
She is the sister
She is even the wife of
Zeus thunderer
She is glorious
All the gods on vast Olympus
Revere her,
They honor her
even equal to Zeus
the lover of lightning

Magical Synchronicity in the Libra Cycle.

The Asteroid Juno (most representing the relational realm) entered Libra on November 3, 2019 traveling through Libra until September 21 2020 when Juno enters Scorpio spending nearly 11 months in the sign of Libra. It will be 2032 to 2033 before it happens again.

2020 began with Juno around 17 degrees Libra. Juno goes retrograde on February 8 at 21 Libra 39 stationing direct on May 27 at 5 Libra 49.

Juno is assisting Venus as she rises into her relational power.

Juno represents the deepest desire for personal connection with a beloved other and where we are learning cooperation, collaboration, compromise, and co-creation ideally creating harmony and balanced equal value with others. When these qualities are NOT met then jealousy, possessiveness, infidelity, manipulation, betrayal, projection and abandonment - to name a few - are rampant.

Hera/Juno was sister and wife of Zeus/Jupiter

The month of June is named after Juno

Her symbols are the Peacock, Rainbow, Scepter and Pomegranate (tying to her to an earlier goddess of the dead – Persephone?)

Queen of Heaven (Venus?) she presided over marriage, sexuality and fertility

A patriarchal telling describes Zeus as the philandering husband and Hera as the faithful but angry, vengeful wife taking her vengeance out on the women Zeus pursued.

Historically, Queen Hera reigned alone until Achaean tribes (in 12th century BC) invaded her homeland.

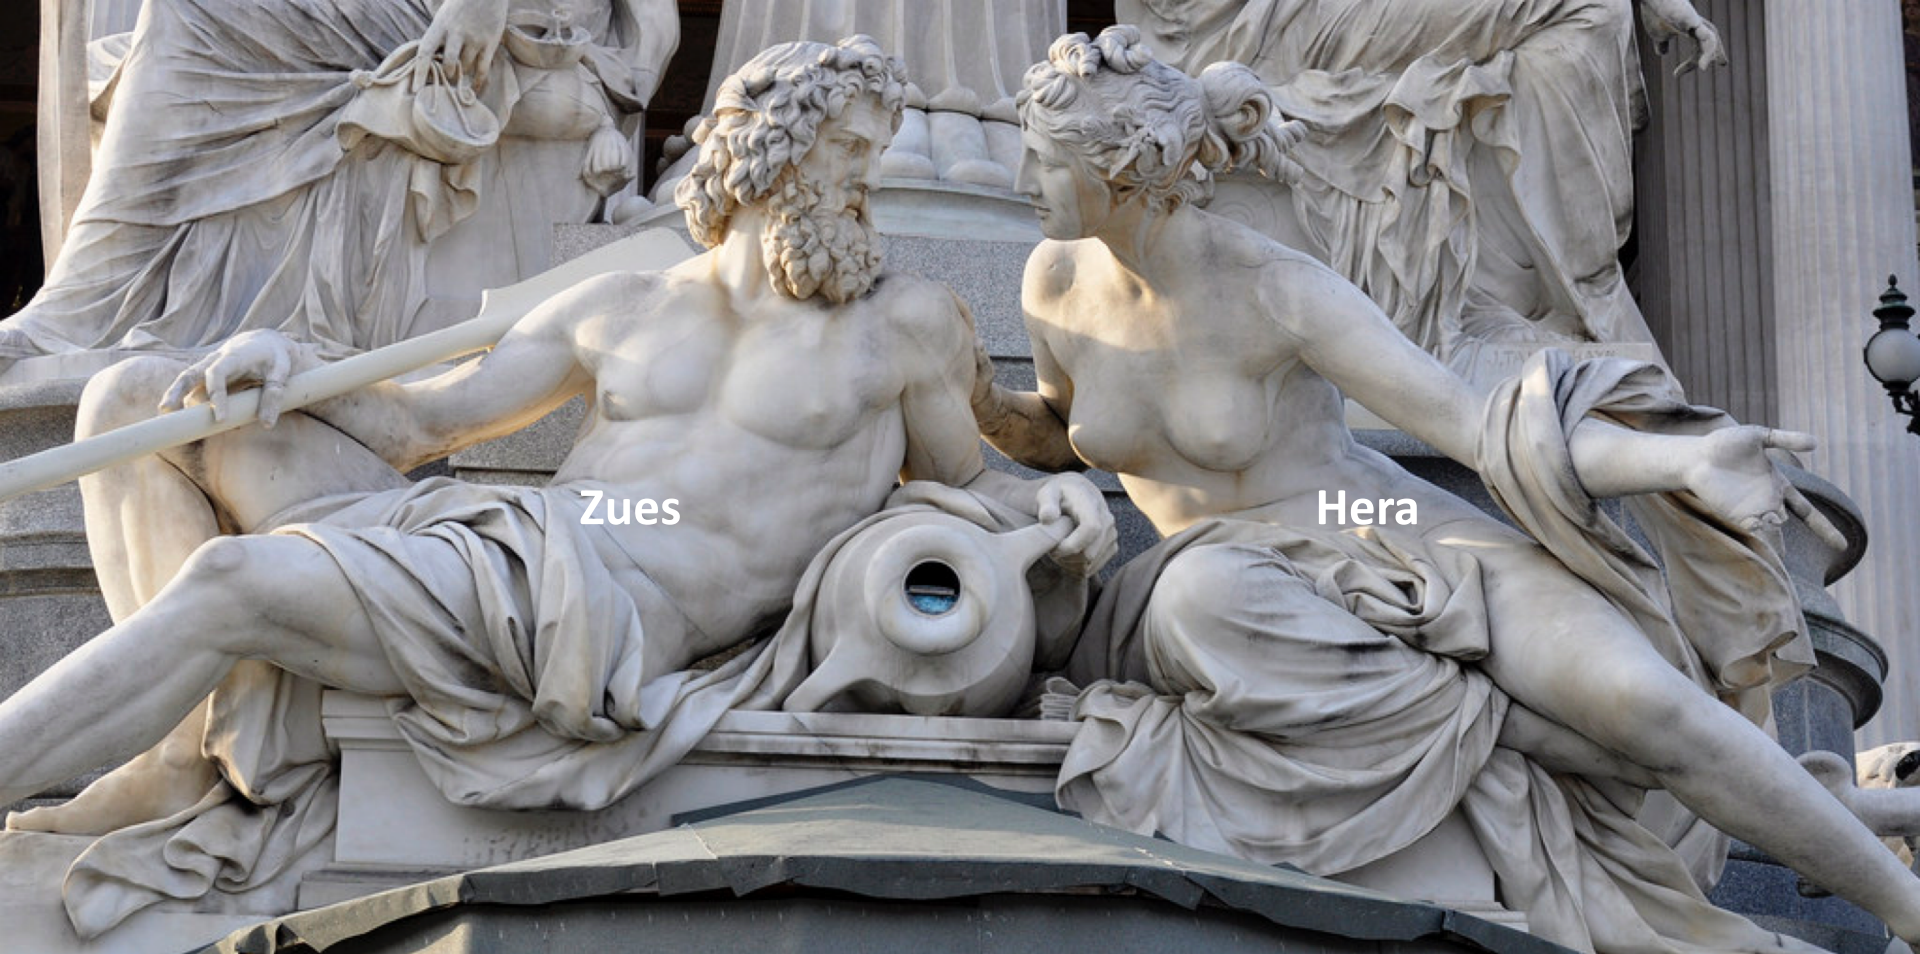

Her immense following was seen as an obstacle – so Hera was forced to become the wife of their chief God Zeus.

From this perspective she was NOT the jealous quarrelsome wife but rather the Feminine Leader or ruling Queen, coerced by alien invaders but never completely subdued.

From Asteroid Goddesses by Demetra George

The planets Venus and Jupiter come together once each year but not in 2020 due to the Venus Retrograde

What is the NEW Story (Relational Blueprint) rewriting the story of Hera and Zues (Juno and Jupiter)?

How do both engage in Mystical Sacred Union - Heiros Gamos (or Sacred Marriage between the masculine and feminine) on all levels including: spiritually, mentally emotionally, physically, and sexually as a deeply fulfilling experience?

Once upon a NOW Time

Hera and Zeus committed to their personal growth and relationship from the inside out.

They stopped looking outside of themselves for answers, validation and fulfillment.

They took responsibility for their own experience, realizing they were mirrors for each other including their shadow and their gifts.

They committed to creating a Magical, Loving, Fun, and Fulfilling relationship first with themselves and then with each other.

They practiced:

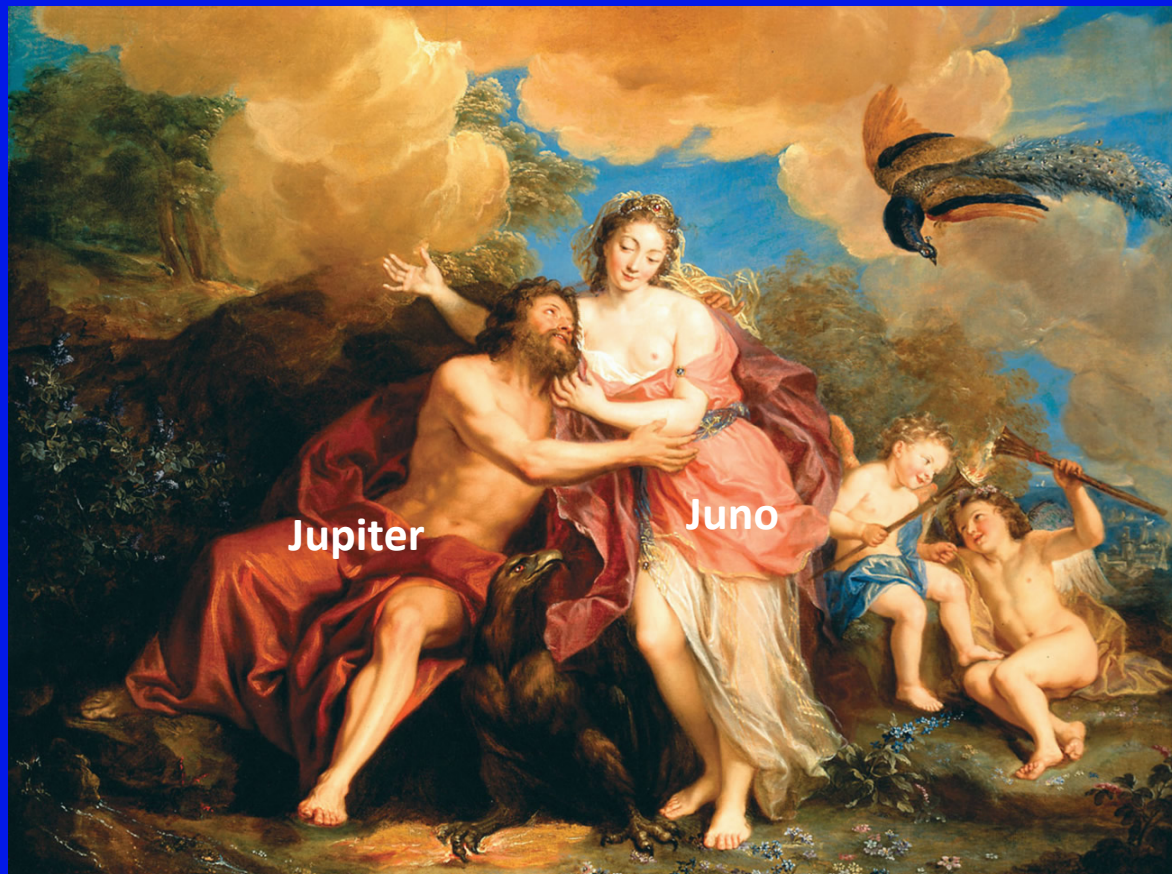

Self-forgiveness and forgiving each other

Compassionate Communication and Active Reflective Listening

They shared Daily Gratitude and Appreciation

They honored and practice each other's love language and much more...

And they lived Happily Ever After!

Creating Magic with our Voice

How do we reconnect with magic and cultivating more empowered ways to access our magical selves

- Be willing to cultivate a Relationship with Magic
- Find and explore what is most vibrant and alive for you – cultivate a relationship with it
- Cultivate your Relationship with the Magical Sacred Spaces Within and around you
- Magic is infused into every part of our world when we know how (or are willing) to see it and give it a voice
- Magic is a perpetual permanent presence – now largely forgotten. Yet it still lives within us.
- Separation occurred due to our cultural conditioning around time and eternity, human and divine, nature and culture, good and evil, right and wrong, life and death, light and dark
- These opposites are not separate - one does not exist without the other. Our task is to remember their relationship rather than how they appear to be separate.

Invocation through words/prayers/poetry/song is a Magic Formula for manifesting attention and bringing forth our divine soul calling us home to the truth of who we really are...

The Power of Sweet Words for our World and Our Beloveds

Dr. Abadio Green of the Tule Tribe in Colombia has developed the “Pedagogy of Mother Earth,” a curriculum drawing on core concepts and principles derived from many indigenous languages.

One core value is the need to speak “sweet words” to our beloveds and to the Earth around us, in order to bring it (and our own indigenous souls) back into aliveness and reciprocity.

Those who practice indigenous spirituality and ceremony as a way of life often practice using words of praise as words of power. It is a deliberate practice to bring more beauty to the world around us - and within us.

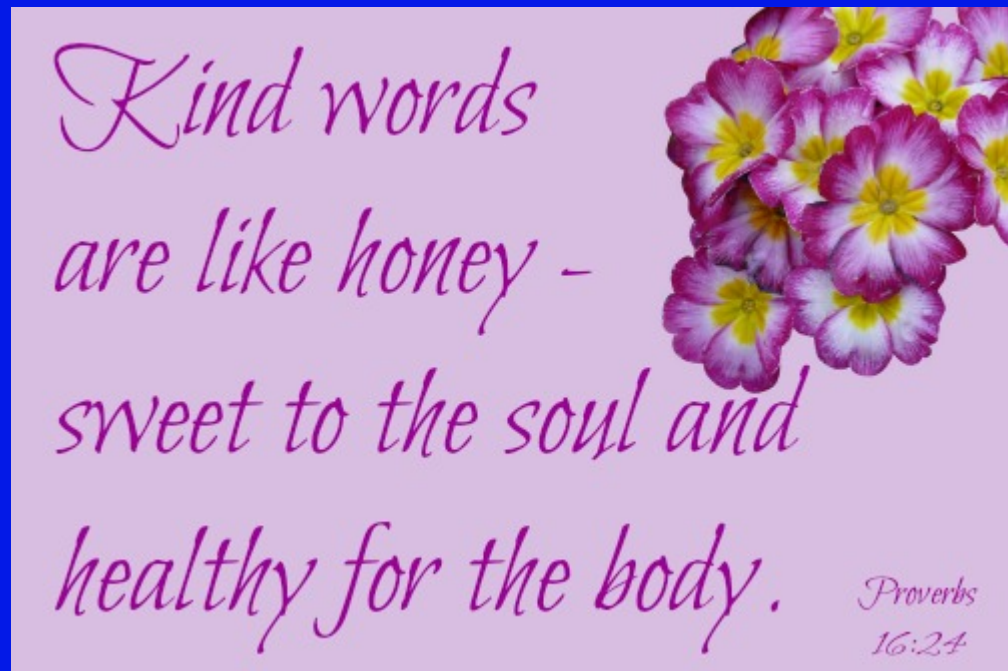

The Power of Sweet Words for our World and Our Beloveds

Questions and Practices

What sweet words can you say to bring yourself back into balance?

What sweet words can you speak to your beloved to help mend any places of harm or separation?

What sweet words are yours to speak in your current life circumstances (in the form of a praise poem, or a love note, that would alchemize any areas of chronic fear, contraction, negative thought or worry?)

A key: Sweet words are especially powerful when they are rooted in truth, self compassion and honesty. Be willing to look at what is toxic in your thoughts and language, get specific, and cleverly turn that toxicity on its head - perhaps finding gratitude for the gift within the toxicity so as to at once honor and transform it into beneficial medicine.

Tami's Example of Sweet Words

Chronic undercurrent of toxic beliefs when stressed: God has Turned Her Back On Me. I am on the wrong track (in the wrong place, relationship, work). Deeper recognition - old programming from Christian background and ancestral trauma.

Sweet Words to Heal this Misunderstanding:

Divine Source, You and I Are One
All My Mistaken Beliefs in Separation
Lead me down the Truest Path Of Potent Longing for Unity and Total
Ecstatic Merging With the One True Heart

Praise to the Sun for Lighting My Way
Praise to the Moon for Illuminating the Magic
In my Life
Praise to the Land for Supporting My Earth Walk
Praise to the Stars for Reminding me where I come from Praise to the Wind for Bringing Change and Refreshing My Spirit
Praise to the Waters for Cleansing My Soul
All is Well, All is Well, All is Well

Sweet Words Exercise

Choose someone or something as the Recipient for your Sweet Words – it might be yourself, your beloved, a tree, your body, your mind, your heart, etc...

Write a praise poem where you speak sweet words to this Being.

If you have chosen beliefs or thought patterns or a relationship that is challenging to you, be sure to acknowledge the underlying issues honestly and use this awareness to bring alchemizing truth to your Sweet Words of Power
