Venus is crossing the Galactic Cross exact January 8 but in range of the Cross from New Year's Day to January 17. This means this is a great time to connect with the elder wisdom of Capricorn overlaying the Galactic Cross for the purpose of co-creating a new middle world reality based in peace, plenty and illumination for all.

Gemini Meta Goddess at the Root Chakra Gate in Capricorn

January 11 to February 1

We release our fear of boundaries and constriction, roots and belonging. We surrender all distorted perceptions causing us to believe embodiment is a trap and a curse.

And in freeing ourselves from false liberation, we discover the truth of our own nature - we and all reality are sourced in magic, our roots are rainbow-hued, we are multidimensional.

And we feel the freedom, magic and creative fire unleashed when we root into the practices, relationships, and home ground nurturing our wild nature, our playful spirits, and our full creative expression.

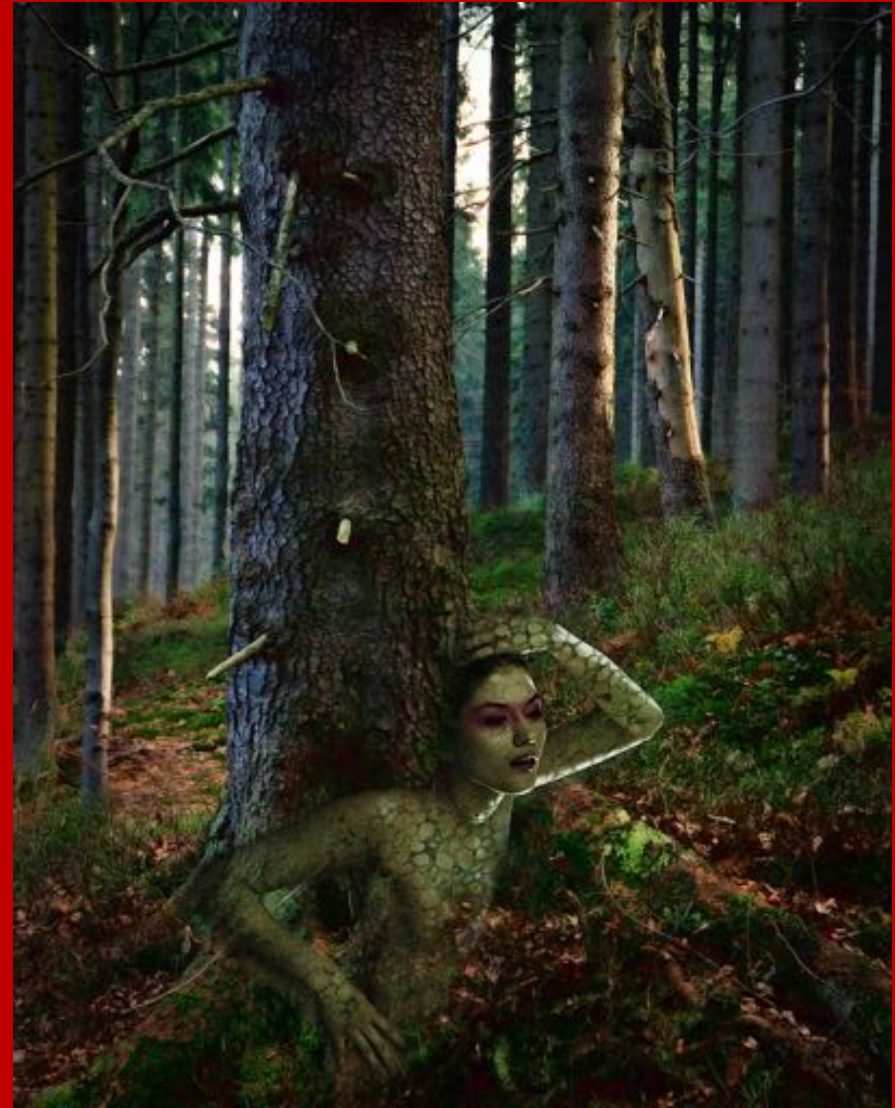

Gemini Meta Goddess at the Root Chakra Gate in Aquarius

February 1 to February 10

We surrender fully to the experience of embodiment. We choose to bring our conscious awareness to the present moment, to the living consciousness of Earth, attuning ourselves to the fairies, the elementals, and the spirit within all Earth beings.

We release our ties to old lifeways dictated by muggles and find our true soul family - playful ,wyrd, full of fun, mischief, new ideas and possibility. Letting go of: “Because it’s always been that way; and “Of course you can’t!” and replacing it with: “Why can’t we?” and “What If?”

Oonagh as a Gemini Meta Goddess

Much as one is most likely to find fairies near the roots of a great Ash or Oak tree, so are we most likely to find Oonagh, the Celtic face of the Gemini Meta Goddess, as we arrive at the Root Chakra Gate, especially in the sign of Aquarius.

Oonagh was a fairy queen of ancient Celtic lore, and wife of Fionnbharr, who was a leader of the Tuatha de Dannan—the “little people” of Ireland who were likely the original people of Irish before the colonization of the Celts.

She helps us find true magic and lightness of heart when we come to the root of things - and are willing to belong fully to the Earth.

The Rainbow Serpent or Rainbow Snake

Dreamtime: An immortal creator being, a huge snake or serpent slumbering beneath the Earth's surface awakens (water is also often considered its home) and in turn awakens others (animals, plants and humans)

The rainbow serpent (snake) connects the cycle of the seasons - traveling from one waterhole to another. This is thought to explain why some waterholes never dry up when drought strikes.

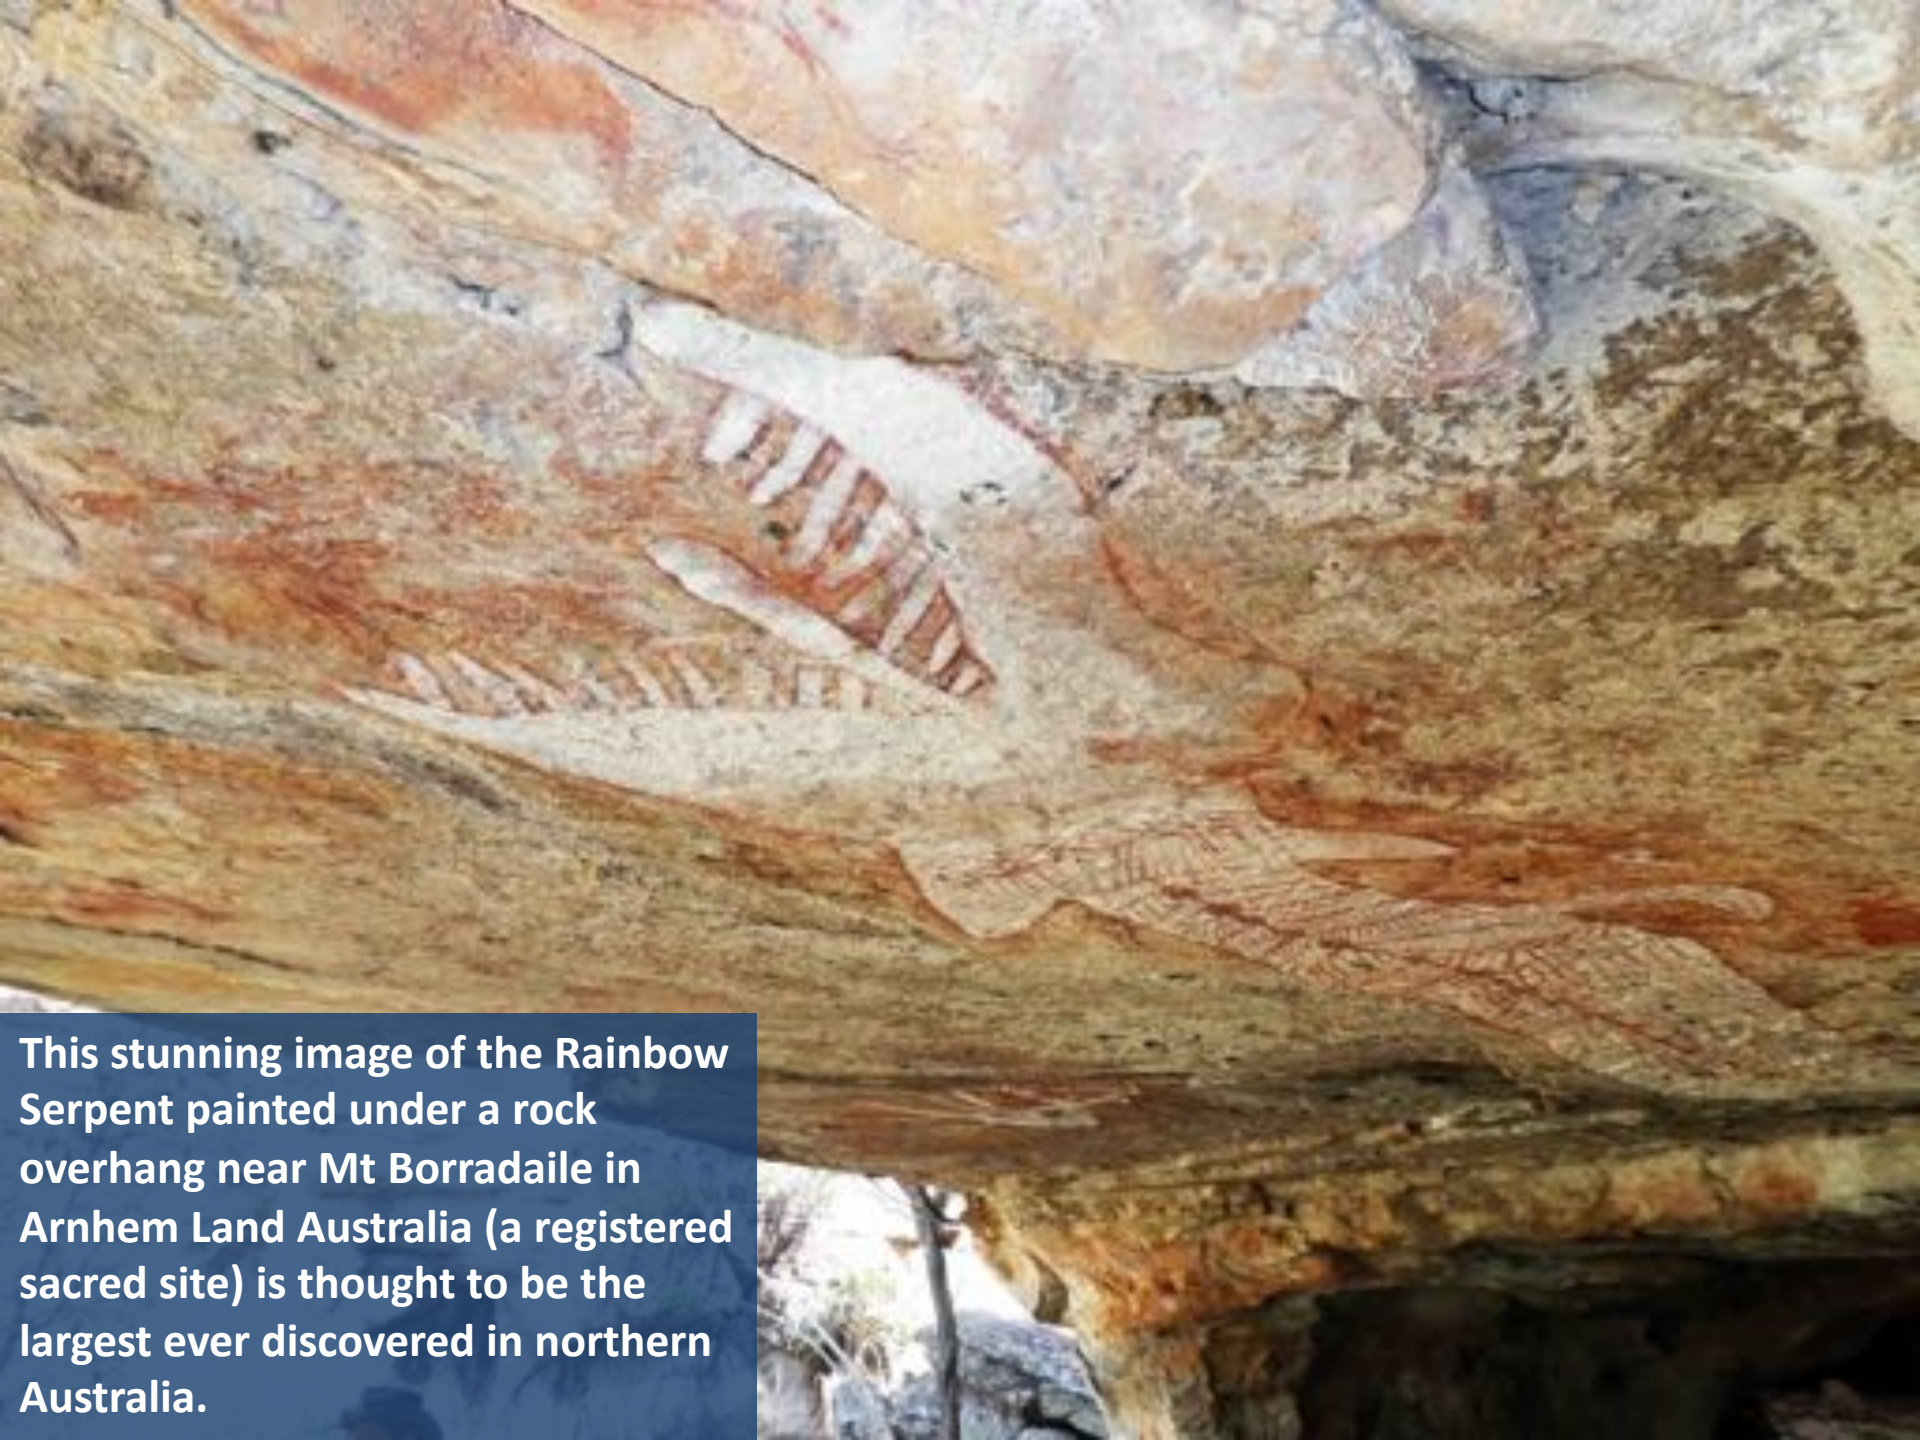

- Giver of life, due to its connection to water
- Protector of the Land
- Destructive Storms and Floods if enraged
- Fertility, reproductive, regenerative power (spirit children at the waterholes find mothers to impregnate when they are wading in the water)
- Supports the abundance of Plants and Animals

Australian myth tell stories about the rainbow serpent slithering across the land creating rivers, gorges, mountains, and valleys in the shape of its body.

They believe the Rainbow serpent lives in secret sacred places and the rainbows seen in the sky are its reflection. Other cultures have shared similar mythology.

This stunning image of the Rainbow Serpent painted under a rock overhang near Mt Borradaile in Arnhem Land Australia (a registered sacred site) is thought to be the largest ever discovered in northern Australia.

The original people of Australia conducted a Solstice ceremony on Dec 21, 2020 at Uluru (formerly Ayres Rock) to initiate a new relationship between the Sun and the Earth, and to initiate a New “Dream” for the Planet in the place of the “Dreamtime”.

They called for support and connection globally as they realigned the “Rainbow Serpent” of the Earth with the Sun as pictured here.

This involved a powerful cleansing and realignment that will be felt on the Earth as we move into 2021.

The beautiful image of serpent light is by Leanne Ta Iki Anawa, and features Uluru and the Serpent energy of Earth.

Cassandra Brene Brown is a research professor at the University of Houston where she has been researching courage, vulnerability, shame, and empathy.

She is the author of five best selling books and her Ted Talk The Power of Vulnerability has 35 million views. She is the first person to have a filmed talk available on Netflix released April 19, 2019 titled The Call to Courage and still available...

She says:

- Researchers measure how brave you are by how vulnerable you are willing to be.
- Vulnerability and Trust go hand in hand with uncertainty and risk. These are the keys to courageous wholehearted living and belonging.
- The opposite of belonging is fitting in by deciding what to wear, how to appear, what to say, conforming in some way.
- You must be brave to choose your own way of being. Don't take criticism from people who are NOT being brave with their lives.

Gemini Insights Fitting in Versus Belonging from Brene Brown

Fitting In is the Greatest Barrier to Belonging. So try these suggestions to practice Belonging:

Make a list of all the things you do to fit in that feel bad, unfulfilling, less than who you really are.

What action could you take to let go of (or change) ONE way you have tried to fit in?

Notice the impact of your actions and words. Are they helping you to feel more creatively and socially connected to others?

Start small and practice belonging to yourself first by being your true self whenever you can.

True belonging doesn't require you to change who you are - it requires you to BE who you are - both vulnerable and brave.

What Interests You? Hang out with people who share your interests.

What Brings You Joy? Find time to do those things.

Practicing Belonging is Courageous Living

Work your way up to being and living more of your magnificent self?

Gemini Blocks Around The Root Chakra

- Your desire to Fit in is So Strong It Causes Self Doubt around your creative genius
- When in Survival Mode you may abandon acting on your Creative Inspiration
- Adrenal exhaustion or burnout due to over giving without sufficient return
- Lack of boundaries – know when to say NO in a healthy way - honor yourself and your creative process

Gemini at the Root Chakra

What would it take for me to release any blocks I have in living connected to my creative expression and serving my community? These blocks may include:

- Giving my all with out an equitable return
- Being co-dependent
- Giving up my creative skills and creative genius in favor of being accepted

Where am I addicted to being detached and disconnected from others?

How are these addictions to being detached compromising my by ability to feel accepted and supported?

Freedom Through Limitation Exercise

Gemini at the Root Chakra reminds us that boundary and limitation are necessary conditions for true magic - and without them we would not know true freedom.

In your Venus Journal explore the following:

Where in your life have you felt the most constricted, trapped, or bound?

Ask: How have you cultivated greater freedom internally or externally as a result of these circumstances?

How have you become more creative?

Now turn it around.

Where has too much freedom, too little structure, boundary, or limitation ended up fostering an experience of entrapment, little choice or freedom on the inside or outside?

Where have those conditions actually thwarted your full creative expression?

Prayers for Our Beloved Saraeko

We have a beloved Priestess Sister Saraeko, known to many of us as Mama Gerrie or Gerrie Moody, who is in need of our prayers.

Since the onset of Covid her community, predominantly African-American, urban, and elderly, has been hit very hard by the pandemic and many, many lives have been lost.

As an ordained Yoruba Priestess with skill navigating the pathways of grief and helping souls pass beyond death, she has been intensively serving her community from the very beginning.

Please include her and her community in your prayers.
