Body Love and Gratitude Practice/Morning Body Blessing

Every morning before getting out of bed, spend 2-5 minutes showering your body with blessings of love and gratitude beginning with your feet and moving up to the top of your head. Envision all the good things each body part does for you every day and be specific as possible in your thanks and praise. See each part filled with the blessings of love, light, healing, and joy.

Home Play for the Sacral Chakra Amplify Abundance

Practice Look at your life through the lens of the Four Elements: Fire (Spiritual/Creative) Water (Feelings/Relational) Earth (Body/Material) Air (Mental/Informational) In your Venus Journal explore where you feel abundant in these areas.

Take time to feel in your body the sensation of abundance and the joy and expansiveness it brings. Dance it, Sing It, Offer a Prayer of Thank You! Do Gratitude Ceremony and/or do a Combination of the above practice with the Gratitude Ceremony

Home Play: Womb/Hara Stories

The HARA in both men and women is the Source of Life or reservoir of vital source energy, the Navel, or physical and spiritual center we all carry.

Begin with an embodiment practice (stretching, dance, yoga, etc.) then ask your womb/hara to share her stories - what she would like for you to know.

She might speak to you through sensation, images, actual message or words delivered to you, memories of experiences still held energetically.

Are there painful experiences she'd like you to witness so they can be released? Is there joy and bliss and pleasure she's aching to receive? What is gestating in her now that needs your nourishment and care? What practices does she suggest so you can be more deeply connected to her and guided by her embodied wisdom?

After you have listened to her stories, thank her and take some time in your Venus Journal to explore the stories she has shared with you and create an action plan to honor her requests and cultivate a stronger relationship with her.

Telling and Living the New World Story About Money and Economy

This month play a game that seeks living evidence of a New World Story about money and economy that is already alive and flourishing in your personal life, your immediate world and across the globe.

For example, a high-profile universal basic income experiment in Stockton, California gave randomly selected residents $500 per month for two years with no strings attached. This effort measurably improved participants' job prospects, financial stability and overall well-being, according to a newly released study of the program's first year.
